The new XING job advertisements

Easy contact - even with passive jobseekers

Do it differently with XING job advertisements: your job adverts will find suitable candidates, not the other way round.

Higher relevance of applications

Thanks to the integration of employer evaluations, your job advertisement is made even more relevant. Applicants can directly see via which contacts they are linked to your company. You can also benefit from the viral distribution possibilities of our network.

More information and greater transparency for applicants

Potential applicants can find out more about your company, e.g. about additional services offered or how your current and former employees rate you.

Direct access to the modern job market

XING job advertisements meet the requirements of today's generation of jobseekers better than any other kind of job advertisement.

Quicker, simpler contact for applicants

Make sure the contact persons are clearly featured in your advert. Anyone interested in your vacancies will see them at first glance and can submit an application right away.
